

Maximizing your strengths for writers

Apr 16th - 19th 2026 | Edesheim | Palatinate, Germany

Maximizing your strengths for writers is a transformational retreat designed for authors who are ready to stop working against their natural wiring and start leveraging the power of their innate talents. Using the research-based Gallup CliftonStrengths® method, participants will explore how their unique strengths influence their creative process, productivity, decision-making, and writing career.

Bestselling author and Gallup-Certified Strengths Coach Becca Syme leads the retreat that combines individual coaching, small-group sessions, writing time, and restorative space. Writers will gain a personalized understanding of their top Strengths themes—what they mean, how they drive behavior, where they cause friction, and how they can be intentionally maximized.

This retreat is designed to help writers:

- Understand their unique creative and cognitive wiring
- Build writing habits and business structures aligned with their strengths
- Replace self-doubt and comparison with clarity and confidence
- Identify energy drains and optimize for joy, flow, and sustainability
- Break unhelpful patterns and create a strengths-based writing life that actually works

Participants leave with a renewed sense of identity as a writer, a customized strengths-driven roadmap, and the momentum to move forward with intention.

No one-size-fits-all formulas. No guilt. No forcing. Just you!
